Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Influenza, Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Liver Complaints, Pains or Sores beside the Chest or Back, Bleeding at the Lungs, and every affection of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most remedies, but loosens it, cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Consumption Can Be Cured
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials in the Circular. None genuine unless signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper.

INTERNATIONAL LAW REFORM

[From the Providence Journal.]

A meeting of those interested in the proposed reform of International Law was held last week in New York. It was called by the American members of the International Conference, which was convened last September, at the Hague, in Holland. Ex-President Woolsey presided, and a considerable number of the friends of this most important reform were present. It has been proposed to hold another Conference at the Hague in the coming September, and the proposal was fully approved by the meeting in New York. It was also stated that the Conference had been especially approved by the King of Holland, and invited by him to meet at his capital. Several delegates were appointed to attend from this country, and the Rev. J. B. Miles, the American Secretary of the Conference, was directed to go to Europe as early as July, in order to confer with the Council in London, and to aid in making arrangements.

The most important matter, however, brought before the meeting in New York, was a series of questions relating to the feasibility of the reforms proposed, which are to be addressed to statesmen, jurists and other public personages in the several leading nations of Europe, in order to draw forth their opinions, and also any information they may have to communicate, touching the matters involved. These questions are arranged in five classes. Those of the first class relate to the desirableness and practicability of a proportionate reduction in the armaments of the European nations. Those of the second class pertain to the practicability of a general treaty binding nations to the observance of certain formalities and delays before beginning any offensive war. The third class of these questions has to do with the practicability of establishing a scheme of arbitration for the settlement of international disputes. The fourth class embraces questions pertaining to any progress which has been made in any country since the last meeting of the Conference, towards the reform and codification of the law of nations. The fifth class has to do with the best method of preventing so far as is possible, collisions at sea, and fixing the responsibility on the culpable parties when such collisions occur.

The questions of each class are designed to draw out the opinions of the persons to whom they are addressed on these several subjects, together with any information or suggestions which they may have to communicate concerning them. Should they receive such responses as are hoped for, a large amount of important material will be brought together for the action of the Conference which is to be held at the Hague. The great object to be aimed at is to create a public opinion in the several leading nations of Europe adverse to war as a mode of international arbitrament. The action of the meeting in New York has altogether a practical look. Action substantially the same will undoubtedly be taken by similar meetings in other countries, and the questions will receive the sanction of those who are actively interested in these subjects on both sides of the Atlantic. The enterprise is one for which everybody wishes all possible success.

The Boston Journal says: As the only part of the ceremonies attending the induction of Cardinal McCloskey which did not receive publicity was the oath which he must have taken, there has been some interest to see that—probably as there would have been to see anything that was kept back. The Cincinnati Gazette, which started the newspaper inquiry, now does all it can to meet it by producing the text of a copy of the oath for Cardinals, which was furnished to Lord Palmerston in 1850 by the British Minister at Turin. The oath, which is mainly ecclesiastical in its scope and terms, pledges the Cardinal to give the Pope and his successors any assistance in retaining, defending and recovering the Roman Papacy and the Regalia of Peter all my might and endeavor, so far as the right and privileges of my order will allow him." He also promises to strive to preserve, augment and advance the rights, honors, privileges and authority of the Pope, and to acquaint him with any information which may be for his advantage. He also declares he will seek out and oppose (or as the Latin is said to be more literally translated, "persecute and fight against") heretics and schismatics. The rest of the oath relates to church affairs. It does not appear that the same oath is now taken by Cardinals that was in vogue in 1850, but if this, we do not see that Cardinal McCloskey has brought himself into any antagonism to the Government of the United States, or has hampered himself as a patriotic citizen.

The great solar eclipse of the 6th of April has been heard from. The London Daily News sent out a special correspondent with the Eclipse Expedition that went to Bangkok, in Siam, and the first news of the event comes through him by telegraph from Singapore. It will be remembered that the English Eclipse Expedition was instructed to devote its whole attention to photographing the spectrum of the chromosphere, and obtaining good pictures of the corona. As this is the first experiment in spectrum photography, very remarkable results were not anticipated. From the meagre telegraphic report we learn that eight good photographs of the corona were taken and that the spectrum of the chromosphere was successfully photographed. The members of this expedition have therefore partially succeeded in the work assigned them, and we hope soon to hear fuller details of this interesting work from all the observing parties. Distinguished astronomers like Johnson and Tacchini are among the observers, and the great phenomenon will be made to yield all available information under their keen investigation.

Gen. Frank P. Blair is steadily improving under the operations of transfusing healthy blood into his veins. He has now received three operations. The first time an ounce and a half was transfused; the second time a little less than four ounces, and the last time previous five ounces. The first two times he lay almost insensible and apparently unconscious. The last time he watched the operation with great interest and articulated a few words, which he had not done for some time. He also moved his paralytic arm, and a few minutes afterward fell into a quiet sleep, and family are represented as greatly encouraged. Similar operations have been performed recently on two patients in a St. Louis Hospital, and in each instance the result is said to have been satisfactory.

CALIFORNIA WHEAT CROP.—The crop reports received from various parts of California show that in the Sacramento valley the yield of wheat will be from half to three-quarters of the average. In Solano county the prospect is good, for a fair crop, and the same in Napa and Sonoma valleys. In the San Joaquin valley crops are very bad, and many localities will not produce enough for seed. The whole valley will not probably average a fourth of a crop. In San Jose valley there will probably be a good half average. In Salinas valley the wheat is in a splendid condition. In the southern counties the grain is generally in good condition, and an increased area is planted, and will undoubtedly afford a usual surplus.

The death of Ewald, the great German theologian, is a great loss to the learned world. He was one of those rare men of Germany, who unite plodding attention to detail, with great intellectual breadth and grasp. In the department of Oriental languages and Biblical literature, he excelled all his contemporaries, and his historical, theological and linguistic works have achieved the highest reputation both at home and abroad. The University of Gottingen, at which he was a Professor, lends to him one of its brightest ornaments, and he will long be remembered for the vigor with which he defended his opinions both in politics and theology. In him, indeed, the student was subordinated to the citizen, and Germany may well mourn the loss of her patriotic scholar.

The possibility of another war between France and Germany is still the subject of discussion in Europe. A Paris correspondent of the London Times telegraphs that unauthorized reports in well-informed circles in Paris. The danger seems, should believe danger is impending. Politicians from abroad, as well as those chatting to be well informed at home, assure that peace or war depends on the approaching interview of the Czar and the German Emperor. No one denies that the powerful party in Germany, comprising the entire military element, feels that the humiliating was too lenient, that the indemnity paid has already returned to French coffers, that the possession of Belfort by French is dangerous to Germany, that France is recuperating rapidly enough, and will soon be able to furnish a formidable army to any alliance with other powers, that Germany is no rather then before the war, and her finances and social organizations cannot long support the expense of the present armaments and she cannot disarm in the face of France.

The New Hampshire Republicans do not purpose to tamely submit to any Louisiana trick, that is evident. They have a fair majority of nine in the House, and are not minded to give up that majority at the command of the Democratic Clerk of a defeated Senate. Astounding resolutions have been made of. Impeachment proceedings against Manchester, Portsmouth and Dover, and it is astire to do the number of Republican representatives will be increased instead of being diminished.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The arrival of ex-Governor Dix at Utica on Monday was heralded by the firing of a salute of 101 guns.

James Fisk, father of the late James Fisk, Jr., who has been living at South Adams, Mass., is going to Europe this summer.

General Sheridan's marriage to the daughter of General Rucker, chief quartermaster on Sheridan's staff, is to take place in June.

The North German Gazette denies the statement that a society has been formed in Germany to facilitate the return to that country of German emigrants to the United States.

It is rather curious that no Democratic paper has rebuked the atrocious sneers of Gen. Beauregard's letter so strongly as the two French organs in New York, one of which is Democratic.

In a bar saloon in Vicksburg, Miss., is shown the table on which the agreement and terms of the surrender of the city were signed by General Grant and General Pemberton, July 4 1863.

The Republican press of New York is unanimously opposed to the bill giving Gov. Tilden power to remove State officers. The Democratic papers are divided and badly mixed on the question.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, attending church in Memphis, recognized in the gray-headed old vestry man who carried round the contribution box the President of the Southern Confederacy! He says: "In all my intercourse with people of all sorts here, I had not once heard his name mentioned."

Considerable disappointment is expressed that Gen. J. R. Hawley has been unable to contest for a position in the American Ride Team which is to visit Ireland. He entered in the competition and on the first day scored 195, being beaten then only by Gen. Dakin. But the exposure brought on a cold which prevented his second appearance.

A resident of Biddeford who signs his name to his communication, writes us as follows:

We are a "Democrat," but if the Republicans nominate Gen. Connor for Governor we shall give him our hearty support.

There are a great many men who will do the same thing; and not only our Bourbon friends who are just now setting up such a howl about the nomination of Gen. Connor, know the fact. Hence the lullaballoo.—Portland Press.

The New York Evening Post, discussing the absurd position of the Liberal leaders as indicated by some of them at the Schurz dinner, says that if they are content to declare their impedimenta and wait patiently and indefinitely for their reward they may have it in time. But unless political signs fail they will do nothing of the kind, rather the present guidance, but rouse the wholesome of one regular candidate by dividing the forces of the other.

George Q. Cannon, Delegate from Utah, a Mormon, lately expressed himself in this manner: "He looked upon the free schools as a system of pauperism, which would instil erroneous ideas into the youthful mind, calculated to render people dependent upon the state for all the necessaries of life, and they might as reasonably expect food or clothes from public donations as to obtain education from that source."

A revolution broke out in Port au Prince, Hayti, Sunday, Gen. Hilaire was dragged from church and shot. Forty foreigners have been killed. Among the victims is a relative of the British Consul-General. Buildings were fired and every kind of disorder prevailed. A state of siege has been proclaimed, and a British gunboat is there and another has been sent. Scamers were not permitted to enter the port and have landed their cargoes at Kingston, Jamaica.

It is said that a wreath of flowers is placed, every week, upon Dr. Livingstone's tomb in Westminster Abbey by some unknown hand. The same tribute was paid even to Nero, and to this day nobody knows who strewed the flowers on his grave. There may be some touching romance in the great explorer's life to explain this weekly wreath, and then again, if the facts were known, it might prove a very commonplace affair.

For the past year we have sold more to quantities of Dr. MOFFAT'S PHENIX BITTERS and TEA HOREHOUND, and have had but one opinion concerning them. That it is the best thing we ever used; it is popularly universal. DOMESTIC NEWS.

PENNSYLVANIA

Becoming Still More Lawless

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 6. There are reports of this morning from the upper oil region indicating, contrary to the usual course, a condition of lawlessness becoming more violent. At several places where the men have shown a disposition to resume the tools and coffin lids have been posted about the villages as a warning. A large gang in Wolcott rope and tar drawing coal by the Philadelphia Reading Company over Cornelius places, and put to flight the men who attempted to resume work. Some 300 striking miners and boatmen have gone down the Shamokin and Susquehanna rivers for a day or two. The number of strangers in Pottsville, Mahanoy and Tamaqua, is reported from Reading, pass over the planes daily, and it is thought the intention is to stop the men with the rope falling upon them. It was discovered in time to prevent such a disaster. A watchman discovered the fuse on the Forest Hills collieries was attached by the miners and cut off. An attempt was made to wreck the Pottsville passenger train on a heavy curve at Big Mine Run last night by placing an iron railroad tie and a large heavy log across the track. Although the train was running fast the engineer made the discovery in time to reverse speed sufficiently to save it, the cowcatcher throwing the log and tie off the track. A similar attempt at the Tamaqua depot last night was foiled.

The Strikers Determined to Hold Out

WILKESBARRE, May 6. To-day was the time set by President Parks for the miners to begin work on the terms offered by the operators, but no one did have the pumps dipped and allow the mines to fill up. The miners still refused to go in and the pumps and other machinery will be removed at once. There is no prospect of the strike ending soon. The miners are as determined as ever, and in every day receiving aid from other sections. During this week they have received 250 barrels of flour and a quantity of provisions from the adjacent coal mines at Hilleton and have the promise of 250 barrels more to-morrow.

The ship laborers at St. John now on a strike are endeavoring to bring the carpenters, caulkers, and other trades men into the same condition. There were between four and five hundred outsiders at work on the ships yesterday, and a number of men have left the society of laborers. Besides special constables a detachment of military is held in readiness in case of emergency.

A Mr. Pedunza of Brooklyn ascended in a balloon Wednesday, with which he has been experimenting for a year past. THE BROOKLYN TRIAL

A Day with Bowen.

HIS TESTIMONY ON CROSS-EXAMINATION.

The Attendance on Thursday.

BROOKLYN, May 6. The ladies who have attended the trial latterly are not of so respectable a class as those who figured in court when the Plymouth pastor was on the stand. There were not quite a dozen ladies among the audience to day. Horace B. Claflin and many of the leading church members were in the Beecher row of chairs. Beecher his wife, sons and Dr. Edward Beecher were in court. For the first time during the trial Tilton was not present when the jury answered to their names and his counsel waited for him. Beecher, as in a business conversation with Evarts and then sat down and chatted pleasantly with Mr. Claflin, evidently doing his best to avoid smiling more than a cildical observer would allow to be the correct thing. Although Bowen's testimony was so damaging last evening the Beecher party do not seem at all down hearted. Bowen lay peacefully in a corner until called to the witness chair and the audience were wondering what had become of him.

The Examination of Bowen Resumed

The examination of Bowen was resumed. Witness was necessitated to go to Boston every Sabbath prior to that conversation of December 2, 1870. He got back from his house on New Year's day, 1871, and on that day had no especial conversation with him, or he might be able to remember. He announced to Beecher that Tilton's connection with the paper was severed. He announced it to Tilton the previous day. He visited Mr. Beecher for half an hour a day after the death of December. He received a letter from Beecher, but did not reply to it. Beecher's letter says "Since I saw you last Tuesday—that is, was on Monday—I have had seen Tilton." (December 28th.) Beecher had advisers little against Tilton till day except general remarks against his moral character and reference to letters he had received from Mrs. Tilton from the West, which witness ought to see, and he also told witness there were stories in circulation concerning Tilton's moral character.

Q—Coming from Beecher's testimony Did you say to Beecher "Let you would stand by him as a friend?"

A—He asked me if I was friendly to Tilton. And I said our difficulties had been made know, or I had no unfriendly feeling. That was all I said.

Q—Is this true, (reading from testimony) Bowen began to grow more and more friendly to me?

Question objected to.

Q—Did you say or do anything to express friendliness more than you have stated?

A—I walked with friendly feelings, and those friendly feelings remained.

The Cross-Examination

Cross-examination by Evarts.—Witness reached Tilton's house by down and out River to Beecher. He said the envelope bears marks of having been closed and opened. He has no recollection whether it was closed or open when he took it to the hire. He has no recollection of Beecher opening it. He has no recollection of Beecher asking him if it was in or out. Witness had the letter in his possession about three hours. Tilton and Johnson had arranged to call at his house on Monday as it was a holiday, and he told them he would be at home all day. They called in the morning. He does not remember whether they named the hour, they call it before 11, and remained two hours or more. Johnson left about 12, and Tilton soon after. He wrote a note to Deacon Freeland that day, he has no copy of it, it was an informal note in pencil, and he did not make a copy. It might have been just before 2 P. M. when he sent the note. He got a verbal answer by the messenger (Mr. on Exhibit Bowen). He cannot remember exactly at what hour he went to see Beecher—I do, I'm the afternoon he thinks. He does not remember seeing anyone at Mr. Tilton's house except Mr. Beecher. He is not even positive—the very question of identity—that he saw Tilton that afternoon. He knew nothing of Beecher's letter of [illegible] Mr. Fullerton informed the Court that there was a point he forgot to ask about on the direct examination and his attention was called to it by Mr. Beach during the recess. "He put the question—Did you at any time make a statement affecting Mr. Beecher's moral character?" [illegible]

The Judge thought it immaterial what Bowen told Moulton and the question was excluded.

Mr. Fullerton then offered in evidence the Woodstock letter, it being one from Bowen to Tilton in 1873 with a view of showing that Beecher's representations were untrue. They proposed to prove that Bowen did make a charge of adultery against him.

The Judge thought the matter too remote and excluded the letter.

Mr. Evarts then handed Bowen the Tilton slip, "Spoils from new friends" and he said he never saw it before.

A New Witness

John Borden Lought testified that he was employed at Delmonico's down-town restaurant on Broad and New streets, and was on the 27th of June, 1874, that a large room upstairs was open for guests and previous to that there was no means of communication with that floor which was occupied by bankers office. (This was in contradiction to the negro Midleight's testimony as to Tilton's lunch in an upper room with Woodhull in 1871.)

On cross-examination the witness said the door was down. This lunch room in question was on the floor below the dining room.

The court then adjourned.

LONDON, May 6. The mutiny on the schooner Jefferson Borden is shown by the logs on the 10th of April when the vessel was off the coast of Cuba, from England. The leader was a seaman named Miller, a native of Finland. He called the captain and mate and said they had broken his leg. This was a case to get the captain's deck unguarded, but while he was disarmed and began rifling on the mate's person the latter finding it impossible to get the upper hand, retired to the deck house in which they were mailed up by the captain and seamen. Forty shots were fired at the mutineers before they surrendered. It was thirty hours from the beginning of the outbreak before the island in surrendered. The captain had his wife on board. Ship-Building in Bangor

CROSBY BROTHERS.

The ship building at this port is beginning to come into its other shipyards. At the yard of the Crosby Brothers on North Hampden, two vessels are now in the hands of a force of men building, employed in reconstruction, under the superintendence of Mr. B. Brewer, master builder.

Active operations are also being continued in a brig of 300 tons, on which the planking is now being done. The keel was laid in January and is 114 feet in length, beam 30 feet and depth 20 feet.

Behind this the brig, but in a less advanced state, is a second one of the same dimensions, a double deck brigantine of 300 tons, keel 110 feet, beam 30 feet, width of beam 30 feet, depth of hold 20 feet. The keel was laid in January and it is intended to have her ready for launching in September. Both these vessels are owned by the builders of the latter Captain Weeks will sail them.

SEATTLE TRANSMISSIONS AND WALTON. Just below the Burnelizing Works and next door to the Carlyle pump factory, Cliff Island Stone and Lath Shingle Works, Walton Repairing and Calking Dock, will soon all gaily flow the stars and stripes. Lewis of Bangor, whose business has been port calking on the Penobscot for twenty years, and Mr. S. P. Walton, late from Oakes, stepped. Thus will be seen that the firm is composed of a strong working force, each member being a practical man of long experience.

The shop is amply stocked with first class cement, while the natural character of the shore at their yard is unusually favorable. In addition to the dock they now have these gentlemen are engaged in constructing another substantial dock especially designed for locating vessels and performing repairs on the keel. At this yard the following seven schooners are now being overhauled: Empire, Convert, Ocean Wave, Orono, Rance, Sardine and Koret.

Unparalleled Results

We have been made acquainted by A. T. Bourne, the Special Agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with the results of a calculation just made by the Directors of that representative corporation, which certainly deserve the attention of every man in the country who cares to have his life insured in a company of unsurpassed strength at the lowest possible cost. The examination referred to has been made for the purpose of ascertaining exactly what amount of accumulations of surplus has been made by the Equitable for the account of holders of its Tontine policies. The results of the practice of this ingenious combination of insurance with investment vary, of course, in various policies of different ages and amounts, but for practical purposes, a single actual case will best illustrate its working.

Policy holder, aged 37, was insured in the Equitable July 9, 1869, on the Tontine plan, for $10,000. His annual payment was $281.70, and five payments made amount to $1,408.50. The actual result thus far is that the surplus accumulated on this policy, in cash, $725.33, or over fifty per cent. of the amount paid in. The amount of each policy on this plan is paid upon the death of the assured, whether it occurs sooner or later; and in addition to that, the accumulations are to be divided among survivors at the end of ten, fifteen or twenty years, accordingly as chosen at first. Basing a calculation upon the actual results of seven years' experience on this plan, the holder of the above policy will receive, if alive at the end of fifteen years, the sum of $3,886, or ninety-two per cent. of the amount paid in by him, and may continue his original policy at the original rates, with participation in profits thereafter.

BY MAURICE F EGAN

Heliotrope and jessamine flowers,
Bergamot—make tang od bowers
For Titan is tiny court.
Honey suck and sweet-smelling
Lilies, and snowy flagons
Full of dew for fairy sport.

Those he saw Then looked around
For the flowers he had not found—
Thought flowers he loved the best.
Sweet violets rose swaying near
Roses crimson and gold and fair
Where they were, but not his quest.

And yet he lingered not in vain—
To watch and wait soft to gain
It is true, say what you please
For just while a scent of rose
Of lilies with sharp smell would sting
Lay positive proof heartsease

While the violets pallid beckoned
Sweetness, gas and lovers he reckoned
Until sped yet could say
All the flowers he had scorned drew
So pale that at worst a scratcher two
And fear ing to be be lighted
Roses red and lure h in vain blushed long
No heartsease from that day
